

Established Facts:

That the ROYAL BAKING POWDER is the oldest and purest baking powder, and the greatest in leavening strength.

That it is free from every injurious substance.

That it makes lighter, sweeter, more nutritious and healthful food than any other.

The Royal Baking Powder Company refines its own cream of tartar in its own mammoth refinery, and thus insures its unvarying quality.

There is used in the manufacture of the Royal Baking Powder more than half of all the cream of tartar consumed in the United States for all purposes. This is required and must be chemically pure, and chemically pure cream of tartar could not be obtained in the markets of this country or Europe, which necessitated the building of special works, and the employment of special processes.

All other baking powders, when analyzed, show traces of lime and sulphuric acid, which arise from the impurities of the materials bought in the market, which their manufacturers use.

This is why the Royal Baking Powder is the only absolutely pure baking powder made.

HORSE TALK.

Some New Horses—Some Fine Stock and Speedy Animals Near Home.

What Thoroughbred Stock is Represented in Central Missouri by Blair Bros.

The reporter of the BAZOO dropped in on Blair Bros., yesterday and here is what he heard in answer to his inquiry about the trip E. R. Blair, of the firm who has just been to New York. Yes I took two two-year-olds and two yearlings with me—all of them thoroughbreds and I may say good individuals.

Did you find ready sale for them? Yes, I had sold on representation the two two-year-olds to McMahon & Co., the former by the way is father-in-law of the famous jockey, Snapper Garrison.

Was he pleased with the colts? I should say so—so well that he bought the other two in five minutes. Could you have sold more?

I had none to offer and can not say—although we have just received an order from Brooklyn for a good two-year old that we cannot fill.

I hear you bought some stallions and brought them home with you—would you mind to tell the readers of the BAZOO something about them?

Why, certainly—there is nothing private in our business—we bought FALCON to use in The FALCON STUD. You know that is the name our farm is baptized with, and let me say to you that Falcon is a model of a thoroughbred and a race horse for your whiskeys.

How is Falcon bred?

Falcon is by the great horse Falsetto, out of Mollie Woods, by Lexington; second dam Hymenia (dam of Virgil) by Imported Yorkshire. Falcon is full brother to Gascon, one of, if not the best two-year-old of his year, and I am told that the horse that beats him this year will have a horse race on his hands.

Has Falcon won races?

Why yes. He won the St. Louis Derby in 1888 and ran second the same year to the great Emperor of Norfolk in the American Derby, Beating White, Los Angeles and other cracker jacks, and he has since then won many first class races.

Is he now broken down? No sir, but to the contrary he is as sound as old democracy and we intend to race him after the breeding season is over.

Have you any other race horses?

Yes, we will race Long Jack another stallion we brought home—and I can say he also is a highly bred fellow by Virgil out of Heliotrope by Imported Knight of St. George, and is one of the best money-makers ever raised in California. We will also race J. B. Clay, by Longfellow, out of Anne Boleyn, by Tom Bowling, and let me say to you that you had better put two dollars on him when we start him.

How do you tell a race horse?

Well, now you tell me how to tell one, and I'll give you $5,000, for I could then go to New York or Kentucky and get a better salary than the President gets; yet there are essential requirements of size, conformation, etc., that we fellows get on to, but it would wear you out to hear it all, and as there is no money in the tobacco box for telling it, I guess we will let it slide to-day.

You folks have quite a breeding farm near town, haven't you?

Yes, we have about twenty thoroughbreds at the farm and expect ten colts this year. One has already shown up—a filly colt by J. B. Clay, out of Surprise, by Damon; second dam Pest, by Imported Phaeton.

Do you like the Falsettos?

Oh, yes; Falsetto by Enquirer, out of Farfallotta, by Imported Australian, was not only a race horse of the very highest class, a stake winner at all distances, but his produce have shown the very highest race horse qualities on the turf—for instance, Dewdrop, Falcon, Fordham, Raperta, Foxmede, and Gascon, a full brother to our horse, Falcon, and scores of others attest the racing qualities of his offspring. No sire imparts more speed than Falsetto. Last year he had 45 starters and returned 29 winners and won a total of 97 races. He had 13 two-year-olds to start and nine were winners.

He had 14 three-year-olds and seven of them won first money. They are big, strong horses and can carry weight. Why, Falcon took up 164 pounds and won at one mile and a quarter on the turf. We think Falcon will make a great sire as he is very large and comes out of the very best racing families—is a race horse himself at all distances and we cordially invite inspection of him from all who are interested in the horse business.

Pointers On Fencing.

One of the most important problems now before the farmer in every country is that of the fence. What is the cheapest, most permanent, durable and ornamental fence to build, is the question for the farmer to settle. The rail fence is out of the question on account of the scarcity of timber and the high price of lumber; the board fence is also a thing of the past; the farmer has tried the barbed wire fence and finds it to be very dangerous and destructive to stock, much loss and injury occurring every year by stock coming in contact with it or being exposed to the effects of lightning, which it conducts very readily, many having lost enough stock to pay for a safe and durable fence; and it is a matter of fact that every field on a farm should be fenced hog tight, so that when a field of wheat or corn has been harvested you can turn your hogs in to get the waste grain, which would pay within a few years for the fence.

When you turn your stock out in your field where you have wire and board fence, you do not know when it may get out and do damage to your own or your neighbors growing crops; and not this alone, but when you have blooded stock, it is important to know that it cannot get out, as every experienced stock-grower is aware of the importance of protecting herds and also individual animals from exposure within and without to strays, that the proper affidavit for registry can be made. So that it is important to have a fence that no one can cut or lay down and let your stock out; and also a fence which your stock cannot knock down or get through. Now the Central Mo. Hedge Company is in the field with a fence that will meet all the above requirements, a few of its merits which you will find in these columns. Read carefully.

CENTRAL MISSOURI HEDGE CO.

JOSEPH G. WHITE, Pres't. D. C. MEDSKER, Vice Pres't. A. W. WINZENBURG, Treasurer. JNO. E. COLLIER, Sec'y.

SEDALIA, - - MISSOURI.

Fence your farm with a living Fence. The Central Missouri Hedge Co. is prepared to furnish the farmers of Pettis county and Central Missouri with the best durable and ornamental Fence in the world.

It is combined Wire and Hedge Fence, known as the Westley Young Patent. The canes of the Hedge serve as living posts, and the strands of wire secured thereto make it an impenetrable and imperishable barrier against stock of all kinds.

We overcome all the objections to the old Hedge fence; under our system all side roots and heavy top are disposed of, and the hedge is dwarfed, but does not defeat the life of the canes of hedge as the old way of hacking does, leaving a lot of dead canes, which when attacked by fire must result in the complete burning of the fence.

When the Hedge has been properly crained, plashed, dwarfed and pruned by our system, it has made a good protection against all intruders and given universal satisfaction. It has thoroughly convinced the farming community that in it we possess the elements of a great and valuable improvement.

All Hedges should be pruned during the growing season, when the branches are young and tender, under our system of Hedge Fence dwarfed, the pruning can be done rapidly and at a very small cost. This company will give its customers a written guarantee to prune their fence at one cent per rod per year for any number of years they may wish.

Our fence is the best in the World 1st. Because it can be made from old Hedge that has been considered worthless and a nuisance for many years; and is durable and handsome. 2nd. The roots are prevented from spreading, by which means ground can be cultivated and grain grown as close as to a plank fence, and thereby utilizing all the ground, instead of it being shaded and sapped—as would be the case of old Hedge.

3d. It can be kept thin without losing strength and can be made any height desired.

4th. It is close at the bottom, preventing the smallest of animals and chickens from passing through.

5th. It is cheaper than any other practical fence now in use.

6th. It is everlasting and does not have to be replaced every few years.

Farmers anticipating the erection of new fence, or the repairs of old Hedge Fence, are requested to consult the Central Missouri Hedge Company or their agents, before deciding on the quality of the fence he should build; and the officers of the company or their agents will take pleasure in explaining to them the advantage of the Westley Young Patent.

We now have about Fifteen miles under contract for spring setting and treating, about three miles having been completed is ready for the most rigid inspection.

Any one desiring new fence set or old hedge treated should call and see or address the Central Missouri Hedge Company, Office, Room No. 27, Dempsey Building.

N. B. For information concerning the validity and correctness of the statements of this Company in regard to this fence please call on any or all of the following committee:

OPINION OF THE COMMITTEE.

At the solicitations of Mr. H. J. Kromke, agent and Mr. Reed M.

Duval, general manager of the Missouri Hedge company, of St. Louis, Mo., we have visited Henderson, Kentucky, and inspected the combination hedge and wire fence as grown and constructed by them. We found the fence perfectly stock proof—one that will not only turn horses and mules and cattle, but hogs as well. It is only 18 inches in width at the base and 10 inches at the top. Being dwarfed, the roots do not sprout or spread. Of this fact we fully satisfied ourselves by digging close behind the plants and finding nothing but the tap roots, consequently you can cultivate as close to it as though it was constructed of plank. The labor of pruning this improved dwarf hedge is but a trifle as compared to that of the old-style hedge. One man alone being enabled to prune at least a mile per day. Besides being beautiful and ornamental, we believe this hedge to be very enduring, one that will last for generations with no outlay for repairs.

SHOT HIMSELF.

John Andrews, who lives in South Sedalia, yesterday morning in loading his gun preparatory to a duck hunting excursion, accidentally discharged the weapon, one or two scattering shot entering his right leg. As he said, it was no more than pin sticking and he picked the shot out and went on his hunt.

Aughe is recently from Indiana and in addition to his connection with the grocery business he will continue to buy and ship horses for the Boston market. The new firm is a strong and popular one and no doubt will do a large and successful trade in the grocery business and shipment of horses to the east. Mr. Gresham of the old firm will remain in the employ of the new.

HOWARD'S SUSPECT.

Another suspect was brought in last night—this time from Howard county. His name is Pat Carson and he was arrested Saturday morning two miles north of Lisbon. The negro is about eighteen years old—a mere boy, yet he was brought here by three big men, Sanford, John and Tilford Tippett.

They were unable to give any reason why they arrested Carson further than that he was a negro. A child could see that the coon was innocent and he was released.

The Steinway is acknowledged to be the BEST IN THE WORLD, as is also the Mason & Hamlin organ. —Bland, the free-silver leader, is one of the plainest men in the House, writes the Washington correspondent of the New York World. He wears a close-cropped dark beard, tinged with gray, and his high cheek bones jut out under his snapping dark eyes. His hair is almost as thin on top as Harter's, but generally has an unkempt appearance, which doubtless arises from the fact that the Missourian is always running his hands through it. His nose is rather thin and his voice has a nasal twang that at times makes his words almost indistinguishable. His dress might be homespun, but it is not. It is a rather loosely fitting "hand-me-down" suit. Bland does not care for style. He is a great worker, and rises at an unearthly hour every morning, and sits up late at night. His early experience as a farmer in Missouri has made it impossible for him to sleep after the roosters in his neighborhood begin to crow.
